Privacy Policy

Your personal and medical information will be held confidential. Federal law now provides that we advise you of information regarding our confidentiality policy.

Your personal information will not be shared with any commercial or marketing entity. Your records will never be released to any recipient without a formal, signed request from you or your designated legal representative. Your records will be treated as confidential information.

The only circumstances in which your personal information would be transmitted to others is connection with your medical care. This would include, for example, consultations with your other physicians or additional specialists, information required by a hospital in connection with planning for surgery or other medical procedures, information provided to your medical insurance company as specified by law and information provided at your request to a pharmacy.

Everything possible will be done to ensure that none of your personal or medical information is inadvertently available to others. Your records will be stored securely during business hours and locked when employees are not in the office.

The rare exceptions might occur, despite best efforts. In the course of telephone calls, discussions among staff and check in procedures, it is possible that some information may be audible or visible, though every endeavor will be made to avoid this.

Confidentiality is another aspect of commitment to the highest quality of care. If you have any questions or concerns, please discuss them with the doctor or staff and the best effort will be made to address them.

Thank you very much for your business and commitment to your well being.
